Game On!

Have you ever thought about the way that you learn? Are you one of those people who like to have textbooks and journal articles to read in depth so that you inwardly digest the content? Or are you a visual learner where diagrams and flowcharts help you to understand. Or perhaps you are somebody who likes to 'do' to really understand and translate information.

The first game, Wounds in a Flash - Guess the Blank, is focussed on the ever-popular topic of wound dressings. Rather than give lengthy explanations on what an alginate is or the properties of a hydrogel, we've instead used simple pictures with a few key points with examples of what the dressings would be used for.

The second game, Wounds in a Flash – Guess the Wound, is focussed on common wound types. It is a game of recall and recognition where you match a wound photo to the description and corresponding wound type. This game too can be played alone, with a friend or colleague or even in a group setting.

To celebrate our new product, we are offering an End-Of-Financial Year special with the price for packs of cards drastically reduced and with bundles available too.

Don't Judge a Mattress by its Cover!

Regularly auditing your mattresses is important for avoiding hidden dangers and serious health risks. Cleaning the cover isn't always enough — even minor abrasions or damage to the mattress can allow urine or faecal matter to penetrate the cover and into the mattress, potentially leading to infection control risks, staining, and foul odours.

SSS Australia is here to help! Contact your Personal Account Manager today to organise a mattress audit for your facility.
